"Ability goes before knowing." It is my great ambition to optimally equip our participants in training and coaching for their professional challenges. Our trainings are less about teaching knowledge and more about learning and improving helpful skills.

I have a background in industry and, as a Diplom Kaufmann, have many years of experience in sales, marketing and consulting. My tasks were to participate in international projects and to take over leading positions.

As founder of moveon I am a passionate entrepreneur and trainer. Based on my practical experience, my area of specialization is in consulting and training of negotiations in sales and purchasing.

It is the direct, visible and often measurable improvements which the participants experience in their business through the training, coaching and consulting. Many of our participants have made careers and achieved great success in their professional environment.

This feedback motivates me to continue giving the best for our customers and participants in the future.

It is an incredibly exciting and fulfilling task to approach needs in a customized way as a unit of client, participant and trainer, to find solutions together and to establish sustainable measures.
